C. Reading Material: Gender-Informed Approaches in Education

Gender-informed pedagogy recognises that educational experiences are influenced by:

- social expectations,
- caregiving roles,
- cultural norms,
- and structural inequalities.

Many women learners, especially vulnerable mothers, may experience:

- interrupted education,
- low confidence,
- discrimination,
- limited flexibility,
- and emotional stress related to balancing learning and caregiving responsibilities.

Inclusive and gender-sensitive educational approaches help create:

- safer learning environments,
- stronger learner participation,

- increased confidence,
- and more equitable opportunities.

Gender-informed pedagogy includes:

- respectful communication,
- inclusive participation,
- learner-centred methodologies,
- flexibility,
- and emotional safety.

Trainers play an important role in:

- recognising learner strengths,
- reducing barriers,
- and supporting empowerment and participation.
